MRCOG

consultant in obstetrics & gynaecology

Dr Geraldine Connolly qualified from UCD in 1986. She trained in obstetrics and gynaecology in Dublin and Cambridge, UK. Following a short period as consultant in obs and gynae in Mayo General Hospital in Castlebar, she took up post as consultant in the Rotunda and the Children's University Hospital, (CUH) Temple St in 2004.

Dr Connolly is mainly based in the Rotunda where she practises general obstetrics and gynaecology. She has established a Teenage Pregnancy clinic in the Rotunda which caters for teenagers up to 17 years of age. This provides a dedicated obstetrician, midwife and social worker at the clinic. Specific antenatal classes have been established for this group which concentrates on general health measures including nutrition and sexual health education. Post-natal follow up is also provided with an emphasis on providing contraception.

In CUH, Temple St, Dr Connolly provides a paediatric gynaecology service and colposcopic examination of children of suspected child abuse. Follow up of these girls after 15 years of age is continued in the Adolescent Gynae Clinic in the Rotunda Hospital where appropriate.
