MD MRCPI MRCOG

consultant in obstetrics & gynaecology

Dr MAEVE EOGAN graduated from University College Dublin in 1996 and commenced training in general obstetrics and gynaecology, working at the Rotunda, National Maternity and St Vincent's University Hospitals.

She then began the Specialist Registrar training programme, during which time she worked at the three Dublin maternity hospitals as well as University College Hospital Galway. During this time Dr Eogan worked as clinical lecturer for UCD, based at the National Maternity Hospital, and developed her interest and expertise in complicated vaginal delivery and postnatal care. She has published and presented her research findings internationally. Prior to working at the Rotunda, Dr Eogan worked as a Consultant at the National Maternity Hospital and Merrion Fertility Clinic.

Dr Eogan took up her position at the Rotunda in early 2009. She provides a general obstetrics and gynaecology service as well as a clinic specifically for women who have sustained anal sphincter injury at vaginal delivery or who have other postnatal complications. She is very interested in labour ward care and envisages being very involved with postgraduate education at the Rotunda. Dr Eogan also works at the Sexual Assault Treatment Unit.

She is married with two children.
